“ To lose Roy and Howard Johnson so close together leaves a whole mess of orneriness gone from this world. My granddad David spray painted KEEP OUT on his tool closet to try and keep their father Harold from "borrowing" tools (didn't work). I'll bet you can still see that graffiti on that door in Grandpa's garage that Roy, Howard and Harold no doubt helped build way back when. It's still there along with the house that a David Dukes owned and lived in from 1941 to 1998. Howard, Myrna and the boys lived and live next door. So many Johnson's, and Dukes', and Crabtree's are gone now. but it's good to see Trish is a grandma and that Roy's line lives on. I send all of them, and the remainder of the Johnson clan, Love and Positive thoughts from the Dukes'.

“ I met Roy when I was in the second grade he was in third. When I moved back to Hoopeston and started at FMC in 1956. My second day of working, at lunch time this guy comes up to me and says "you Dick Carrell, i'm Roy Johnson"? Our friendship rekindled and never broke until now, "rest in piece killer". MY FRIEND.
